Massimo Barlettani paintings

Continuous professional contact with international photographers and artists has led him to develop a very particular sensitivity.

His artistic research has developed along a path that has evolved from abstract painting into a figurative re-definition of iconic elements, particularly female figures and natural elements.

Gerald Moroder sculptures

In his research, materials from the soil are in the foreground, almost privileged for their intact impact with the image of reality and contemporary man. With the earth, the stone, the wood dough, the sculptor wants to make an experience that is different every time, pervaded by the moods that can be gathered within the productive nature of his existence.
